THE REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN IN VIRGINIA.

The Republican campaign in Virginia, from the nominee for Governor down to the humblest spellbinder, are making no headway in their efforts to persuade the reflective voters of the Old Dominion to turn over their State government to the Republican party. Twenty-five years have passed since Virginia tried the experiment of Republican government. That experience was sufficient. At no time since then have the majority of the voters of that State had any desire or any adequate reason to repeat the experiment.

Capt. W. P. Kent, the Republican nominee for Governor, is an estimable man, respected by his neighbors. But he blundered irretrievably when he made charges against the Democratic administration of the State government which he could not sustain—charges of extravagance and inefficiency which were readily and convincingly refuted. Captain Kent's candidacy embodies no principle and presents no issue which make a change in the State administration desirable or in any degree or respect essential to the material or political welfare of the State. After a quarter of a century of Democratic rule, with their government conducted honestly, efficiently and as economically as is consistent with the growth and needs of a great Commonwealth, the majority of the voters and taxpayers of Virginia have good reasons to be satisfied with the existing order.

In their nominee for Governor the Democrats of Virginia have a man in every way worthy of the confidence and the esteem of the people of that State. The Republican organ in Baltimore characterizes him as a "tool" of his party. No Virginia Republican, having a fair knowledge of the character, the personality and the career of Judge William H. Mann, would apply this scurrilous designation to the Democratic candidate for Governor. Judge Mann is a lawyer of solid attainments, a citizen of the highest type, a man unswerving in principle, straightforward, candid, fearless. He submitted his candidacy to the Democrats of Virginia in a primary election and won the nomination of his party on his record as a Democrat worthy of the confidence and entitled to the respect of all Virginians as a citizen of unblemished integrity and lofty standards. Judge Mann was put forward by the Democratic party of Virginia as its candidate for Governor not as a "tool," as the Republican organ absurdly and recklessly declares, but as the type of the high-minded, courageous, thoughtful citizen by whom the office of Governor will be administered faithfully and honorably, for the welfare of the State, without fear and without favor.

Neither Captain Kent's unfounded arraignment of the Democratic party in Virginia—charges which were disproved as soon as they were subjected to honest and unbiased scrutiny—nor the ridiculous and malicious attacks upon Judge Mann will promote Republican chances of success in Virginia. The Democratic claim for continuance in power is based upon the party's record for maintaining efficient and satisfactory government, for giving the people an administration which meets all the requirements and measures up to the standards of a discriminating electorate.

And the people are convinced that Judge Mann has all the qualifications that are essential in an able, honest and capable Executive.—Baito. Sun.

C. R. Klinger, the Jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities of my bowels, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed." WILLIAMS CALLS ON SLEMP FOR ANSWER.

All of the horrors of negro enfranchisement would be the result of Republican success in the present campaign, in view of the recent utterances of President Taft in opposition to negro disfranchisement in Maryland, said Judge Samuel W. Williams Monday. Should the Republicans gain control of the State government, the President would be the arbiter of legislation, in Judge Williams' opinion, for the reason that he would be given the credit for success in his avowed purpose to break the Solid South.

"Nobody can doubt," says the Democratic nominee for Attorney-General, "that the Republicans would be glad to have the negro vote in Virginia again at their command, and an amendment to the Constitution again enfranchising the black race would be the natural outcome of this desire of the white Republicans and of Mr. Taft's utterances favoring equal suffrage. With the Republicans, white and black, in control of the election machinery, the terrible conditions of reconstruction days would again be here, and the white man's government, established with blood and suffering, together with the work of the late Constitutional Convention, would be lost."

McDowell county, W. Va., on the borders of the Old Dominion, is cited by Judge Williams as an instance of Republican control of the free school system, for which Messrs. Kent and Brent are contending so earnestly, where young white women who desire to teach must present themselves before A. C. Calhoun, negro of Welh, who is president of the county school board. "Most of those States," said Judge Williams, "in which Mr. Kent says teachers are paid higher salaries than in Virginia, have mixed schools. Will the Republican nominees say they favor this? No. Why? They have not followed their own comparison thus far."

"I notice," continued Judge Williams, "that Congressman Slemple, the Republican State Chairman, is fond of giving interviews to the newspapers. I wish some reporter would ask him what he thinks of the recent letter written by President Taft to a Washington newspaper, in which he plainly and unequivocally placed himself on record as being opposed to suffrage restrictions which are manifestly intended to discriminate against the negro race. In answer to a letter asking his opinion concerning the franchise amendment to the Maryland Constitution, which is proposed by the Democrats of that State, the President says: 'It is deliberately drawn to impose educational and other qualifications for the suffrage upon negroes, and to exempt everybody else from such qualifications.'"

"This is gross injustice, and in a violation of the spirit of the Fifteenth Amendment. It ought to be voted down by every one, whether Democrat or Republican, who is in favor of a square deal."

"What does Mr. Slemple think of that?" asks Judge Williams. "Does he favor the sort of a square deal which will give the negro the ballot? Should he, with the aid of the national administration, succeed in carrying Virginia, could he afford to turn his back on the views of the President? Are the Democrats of Virginia willing to take the chance as to what Mr. Slemple and Mr. Kent would do under such circumstances?"

Eliminating the possibility of Republican success in the present campaign, Judge Williams believes that a substantial reduction in the Democratic majority in the coming election would be disastrous, in that it would encourage Mr. Taft, with his equal suffrage ideas, to continue his warfare against Democratic supremacy in the Southern States, and cause him to concentrate his forces constantly upon Virginia. The white people of the State owe it to themselves, argues the Southwest candidate, to repudiate by a tremendous majority the intrusion of the national administration in State affairs, and to rebuke the President's utterances in favor of negro enfranchisement.

VIRGINIA APPLIES A GOLDEN HARVEST.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 10.—Harry F. Byrd, president of the Valley Turnpike Company, a large investor in Virginia apple orchards, and one of the bright young men of the Valley, who is doing splendid work in developing that section of Virginia, in an interview today, declares that the Valley of Virginia within a few years will produce apple crops worth between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. He also says that he believes that apple orchards in this section will sell as high as $2,000 an acre, the price paid in Washington State.

Mr. Byrd declares that the climate and soil of the Valley is well adapted for apple culture, and it is only the development of the industry that is needed to make the Valley the richest apple belt in the Eastern section of America.

In an interview, Mr. Byrd said: "When Charles James Faulkner, father of former Senator Faulkner, of Martinsburg, W. Va., and one of the most gifted men of his day, said in his speech before the Agricultural Association more than fifty years ago that this part of the country would be known as one of the greatest apple producing countries of the world, he spoke with a prophetic vision that time is vindicating."

"In the past thirty-eight years the apple industry in the Valley of Virginia has gone forward by leaps and bounds."

"In 1871, when Dr. J. D. Lupton, who died recently, planted a fifty-acre field in apple trees, his neighbors declared he was crazy and that he was burning money in the ground, but he probably was guided by the brilliant mind of Mr. Faulkner. Dr. Lupton knew what he was doing, and that money invested in young apple trees, reaching their tender tendrils into the rich soil, in due course of time poured a golden harvest into the lap of the 'plowman.'"

"The soil of the Shenandoah Valley is especially adapted to fruit culture, and the government officials and other experts say that the quality of the soil in the Valley is as good for apple-raising as any other section of the United States."

By experiment it has been shown that apples grown here will keep better than those grown in almost any other section of the country, and this makes our apples especially desirable for exportation.

"The climate is medium and is neither too cold nor too warm, and it is very seldom that the crops are affected by freezing, while in New York State and the West almost every year a portion of the crop is lost by frost."

"It has been proven that as much as $1,600 can be realized from an acre of apple trees. There are forty trees from each tree on an acre of land, making 400 barrels per acre, which he sold at $4.00 a barrel, or $1,600 for the acre."

"In my opinion, there is no danger of an overproduction of a good quality of apples, and there will always be a ready sale and good prices for a good quality of apples."

"The exports in apples of the United States have increased to an enormous extent, and in 1902 the exports of dry and green apples were $2,119,470, while in 1907 the exports amounted to $3,819,912, or an increase of about 400 per cent."

"The largest apple-producing State in the Union is New York, which produced 4,900,000 barrels in 1906, and I prophesy that the apple crop of the Shenandoah Valley will in a few years equal and probably exceed this amount, and that apple land in the Valley will sell like it now does in Washington State, where some bona fide sales were recently made at a price exceeding $2,000 an acre."

DETRICK.

It has been one of the driest years that has been in this section for many years. This town is one like Woodstock, it has been dry. All of the wells went dry accepting Ship's which flows about the same.

Our town went wet today as we were visited by a fine rain, such a rain has not come for some months. The farmers were glad to see it come.

The Brethren held their love feast Saturday evening at Trinity church, which was attended by a large crowd. Their was over one hundred communicants. Services were conducted by Rev. E. B. Shaver assisted by Prof. Baal, of Rollins and S. Christiansen.

Mr. Garber, of Dayton, filled the pulpit first of last week. He preached interesting sermons. He was one of the best speakers that visited this section for sometime.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ritenour expects to start Wednesday for Independence Hill where he will work for Mr. A. M. Yates.

Mrs. Roso, wife of G. W. Mauck who has been suffering with the dreaded disease consumption, died Sunday morning about 7 o'clock and was buried Monday. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. E. B. Shaver, aged 43 years, 11 months and 11 days.

She leaves a husband and 8 children, two of them are married, Mrs. Robert Lichliter and Mrs. Samuel Ritenour, and six remain at home, mother, five sisters and several grand children.

She was esteemed and devoted mother to her family. Strong in her church which she attended until she became unable to attend, but by all accounts she died a Christian woman. May God comfort the bereft ones, and guard them that they may all meet the deceased one who has gone before.

Mrs. Wm. Shippe and children are visiting Ship's father and two sisters who live near St. Luke. We wish them a happy trip.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. Arch Golladay had the misfortune one evening last week to twist her ankle very badly by stepping from a buggy. The sprain was so painful that her parents had to assist her from the buggy to the house. We hope she will recover soon.

Mr. Wm. O'Flaherty's little son 3 years old had the misfortune to fall in a kettle of hot molasses which was just taken from the fire burning his arms from tip of fingers to elbow which made a very severe burn. His mother wiped the molasses from the child's arms with the skin followed and left the child in a painful condition.

NOTICE TO Mr. Voter.

In selecting your member in the next House of Delegates, it behooves you to lay aside your prejudice and be controlled alone by what you believe would insure to the best interests of the county. Take into consideration the qualifications of the two candidates as law makers, and their knowledge of the needs of their constituency. Without desiring to do any injustice to Mr. Bowman, it is due to his constituency that he state what he has done for them, during his four years at Richmond. Surely none of them are aware of anything, and if the irregular Republican candidate can remember of anything he should tell us of it.

Have you, Mr. Bowman in your four years of office holding, prepared or suggested a single bill that ever became a law? Have you? Please answer.

Feeding Farm Hands.

Every farmer's wife knows what tremendous appetites farm hands usually have; but while they eat well they work well, too.

Here's a good suggestion about feeding farm hands. Give them plenty of Quaker Oats. A big dish of Quaker Oats porridge with sugar and cream or milk is the greatest breakfast in the world for a man who needs vigor and strength for a long day's work. The man that eats Quaker Oats plentifully and often is the man who does good work without excessive fatigue. There is a sustaining quality in Quaker Oats not found in other foods, and for economy it is at the head of the list. To meet needs of those in different climates Quaker Oats is packed in regular size packages and hermetically sealed tins; the latter for hot climates.

Autumn Snow Storm.

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 11.—A two-minute snow storm struck Wheeling to-night, startling night workers in downtown offices. The snow fell after a day of drizzling rain.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 11.—Light snow fell here and in many towns in Central Iowa to-night.

Winona, Minn., Oct. 11.—Three inches of snow fell here tonight. At times the storm assumed the proportions of a blizzard.

Now Richmond, Wis., Oct. 11.—Snow flurries this morning have been followed by a blizzard tonight. The temperature dropped to freezing.

Bird Season Opens Nov. 15th.

The Board of Supervisors Monday passed a resolution making it lawful to kill partridges between Nov. 15th and 1st, thereby making the season 15 days longer than last year, when it was for one month only.
